ARGUMENTS IN THE CRONIN CASE

Beggs Refuses to Stand With His Fellow Suspects and Will

BOLDLY ADVANCE A SEPARATE PLEA $60,000.

CHICAGO, November 27.-The State Attorney's office presented a scene of activity to-day when a reporter called to inquire as to the arrangement agreed upon between counsel as to the order in which arguments to the jury should be made. The State's Attorney was sitting at a table on which were piled the various books of testimony taken during the trial, numbering in the neighborhood of 5,000 pages, and at a table close by sat his stenographer, while at his right hand sat Mr. Mills and Mr. Kickham Scanlan.

The States Attorney was too deeply engaged in analyzing the evidence to talk at any length, but from reliable sources it may be said that the order of argument as announced by Judge McConnell on Friday morning

THE FIRST ADDRESS.

State's Attorney Longenecker will open the case for the prosecution and detail to the jury the evidence adduced for the con-viction of the prisoners, and will review the alibi set up for the defense. He is carefully preparing his argument, which he anticipates will consume an entire day, and in view of the fact that Mr. Forrest proposes to put several witnesses on the stand on Fri-day morning to prove that William Coughlin, the saloonkeeper, was with Dan on the night of May 4, as stated by those persons in the defense, and by that means will seek to impea h the testimony of the driver of the carriage, there is a probability that the arguments will not commence before Saturday morning, in which event Judge Longe necker will consume the entire day on Sat-

Judge Wing will open for the defense and make an exhaustive analysis of all the evidence adduced from his standpoint, Mr. Forrest stating that he will leave no point unrouched upon. Mr. Ingham will follow with an analysis of the testimony on behalf of the State, and also of that adduced on behalf of the defendants tending to show

TO CLEAR KUNZE. He will be followed by Mr. Donahue, who will confine his remarks principally to O'Sullivan's alleged connection with the case, and also endeavor to clear Kunze, who is regarded by counsel for the defense as a 'tramp who was got into the case, but really

Mr. Hynes, who it will be remembered cross-examined the medical experts and several of the witnesses from Camp 20, both for the prosecution and defense, will tollow Mr. Donahue with an exhaustive argument, consuming probably a couple of days.

Mr. Foster, who said on Tuesday at the consultation, that he did not regard it as the duty of counsel for Beggs to say any-thing on behalf of the other prisoners, and further that he thought that Beggs' case would be prejudiced if counsel for the de-fense other than himself spoke in his behalf, will probably follow Mr. Hynes in an argu-ment on behalf of bis client, Beggs, after which Mr. Forrest will review the entire case for the defense, excepting Beggs, and it is thought likely his argument will consume three days.

THE FINAL ARGUMENT. Luther Laffin Mills will then reply upon the whole case in an argument in which he will, like his predecessor, review the entire case as a unit, and will probably consume two days in his argument. Judge McCon-nell's charge will to low, and the indications are that the jury will not have the ease in charge before Tuesday, the 10th, or Wednes-day, the 11th of December.

In the arguments on behalf of the State the alleged antagonism and bitter feeling shown by the defendants toward Dr. Cronin will be traced back to February 8, on which day, at a meeting of Camp 20 of the Clan-na-Gael, in the evening, Captain Thomas O'Connor testified that he got up in the meeting and stated that he had heard in another camp a minority report of the committee appointed to try the old executive com-mittee known as the Triangle, in which it was distinctly stated that the funds of the United Brotherhood, to the amount of $100,000 had been embezzled by the old executive Triangle, that its report had been sent from this country to England, by the executive and notification given to the British authority, which resulted in the patrol being placed behind the prison bars in that country, and that instead of looking for spies, which it was alleged existed in their Brotherhood besides Le Caron, they had better investigate closely the Triangle.

BEGGS' BOLD STAND. Mr. Foster's defense will be unquestionably that the State has offered no proof to indicate his client (Beggs) in any con-spiracy relative to the death of Dr. Cronin or otherwise, and that there is an in-adequacy of proof to hold him. Mr. Foster has taken no exceptions to the rulings of the Court all through the case, and has made no objection to any evidence given, which will place his client in a very unenviable position should the jury convict.

From the line of Mr. Forrest's defense of the other prisoners, it is evident they will argue to the jury that no sufficient evidence has been adduced to show that their clients were implicated in the crime. In short, they will claim an alibi. The speeches of the respective counsel will doubtless be read with the deepest interest.

A DEFECTIVE FLUE

Was the Cause of the Destructive Fire at Lecchburg No Houses for Those Burned Out-The Work of Rebuilding.

LEECHBURG, November 27 .- The town is gradually quieting down atter the excitement of last night's big fire. The great trouble now is to find homes for the sufferers. There are no empty houses in town, and the homeless are being cared for by their more fortunate neighbors. The total loss will not exceed the estimates last night. The insurance is about $00,000. The fire was caused by a detective flue in the Anderson building. Arrangements are already being made for rebuilding by a number of the business men who suffered by the confiagration.

The Leechburg Banking Company will erect a fine brick structure on the site of their old building. They secured room in the Jenkins House and opened for business this afternoon. Other firms have arranged for temporary quarters. The Apollo Iron and Steel Company anthorized the relief committee to draw on them this afternoon for $1,000. ers. There are no empty houses in town,

ACCOUNTS IN BAD SHAPE.

An Alleged Shortage of $25,000 in the Treasury of Wheeling.

SEPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCH. WHEELING, November 27 .- A wild commo WHERLING, November 27.—A wild commo-tion has been created in city government cir-cles by the discovery that something is wrong in the accounts of the city compromise loan. The loan was issued in 1801, to the total of $307, 000, of which $30,000 bore 6 per cent interest and $307,000 3 per cent. The commissioners were S. Brady and N. Wilkinson. Both are dead, Colonel Wilkinson dying about eight months ago. New commissioners were named last summer, and for six months have been en-deavoring to straighten out the accounts. last summer, and for six months have been en-deavoring to straighten out the accounts. All the books and papers of the former com-missioners are missing, and it is feared there is a serious defalcation or loss of some sort. There are hints that this may reach $25,000 or more on the one hand, while on the other it is as strenuously claimed that everything will be satisfactorily explained in time. The matter has occasioned an immense amount of talk.

AN OLD GAS FIELD

To be Once More Developed for All There is in It.

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. 1 GREENSBURG, November 27.-The old gas field, abandoned years ago after the famous Brinker well was drilled, four miles east of Brinker well was drilled, four miles cast of this place, in Unity township, will now be developed. A strong company has been formed, including J. M. Guffey, of Pitteburg; M. R. Haymaker, the pioneer gas man of Murrysville: Shields & Mechling, the hardware merchants of this place, and others of less prominence, and preparations are being made to commence drilling.

Over 1,000 acres of land have been leased by the company, and it is proposed to go down 2,500 feet if necessary. The point where drilling will be begun is about 300 feet from the old Brinker well. Mr. Haymaker, who has been in the field for a time, is confident that either gas or oil will be found in abundance.

A BARREL OF OIL

Used as Fuel, Explodes and Seriously Injures the Fireman.

PERFECTAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPAYCH. LIMA, O., November 27.-Frank Shane, fireman at the County Infirmary, was horribly burned this morning. He went into the base-ment to light a fire under the boilers, where oil is used as fuel. Gas had generated in the fur-nace, which exploded and communicated to a barrel of oil, enveloping Shane in a sheet of finme.

He was badly burned about the face and hands, but will likely recover. The explosion set fire to the building, which was put out with small loss.

THROUGH THE BRIDGE.

Miroculous Escape of All of the Crew Except the Engineer, WHEELING, November 27.—Near Buntington to-day the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad ton to-day the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad bridge crossing the Guyandotte river fell while a freight train was crossing it, precipitating the entire train into the river. Engineer R. V. Freeman was killed.

The rest of the crew had a miraculous escape, sustaining only slight injuries. The wreck is complete, and had it been a nassenger train the loss of life would have been fearful. The bridge has been condemned for some time.

Mysterious Murder of a Young Girl. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

the nurdered body of a young girl named Clara B. Pierce was found two miles this side of Korthens. It is believed that the murder was committed about 9 o'clock. and the girt had been seen in the neighborhood about that time. A tall slim fellow, wearing a derby hat and light suit of clothes had been seen with her a short time before, and he is believed to be the murderer.

A Steel Plant Destroyed. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. CONNELLSVILLE, November 27. - Martin Joyce's steel plant and silver smelting furnace at his blue stone quarry, three miles south of Connellsville, burned down last night. A large grindstone in the building exploded from the heat and some of the quarrymen narrowly escaped being killed from the flying pieces. The plant was recently erected at a cost of $10.000.

The Bodies Nearly All Transferred. PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCIL 1 JOHNSTOWN, November 27 .- The work of raising the dead at Nineveh was completed vesterday, and a carload of bodies brought to Johnstown for interment in Grand View Ceme-tery. Twenty-five bodies were also raised on the Indiana side, opposite Nineweb. There now remain but 13 bodies, those buried at Blairs-ville, to be transferred.

A $3,500 Verdict for Breach of Promise. INFECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. CANTON, November 27,-The $10,000 breach CANTON, November 21.—The $10,000 breach of promise suit of Maud Sanders against Dr. Daniel Gardner, of Massillon, was ended at Carrollton this afternoon by the jury returning a verdict of $3,500 for the plaintiff. The suit was filed two years ago and was several weeks on hearing, and was filled with lots of spicy testingery.

A Penchant for Gold Watches, [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] GREENVILLE, PA., November 27 .- H. Camp bell and Samuel Artherholt, well-known cita-zens, were stopped by highwaymen last night, while on their way home, and at the point of the revolver compelled to give up their gold watches and purses. FIGHTING WITH FIRE

Cotton - Ferced to Abandon the Ship and Take to Bonts-

The Rescue. NEW YORK, November 27 .- The 59 persons received from the steamer Santiago were landed at the barge office dock to-day. of the lost vessel, makes the following state-of the lost vessel, makes the following statement:

On November 19, 233 miles outside of Sandy Hook, a gale came up. At 420 r. m. one of the crew discovered smoke curling up from between the seams and butts of the poop deck near the mirzen mast. Smoke was also seen to issue a few minutes later from under the tarpaulins of the hatches where the cotton was stored. We atonce set to work to discover the exact locality of the fire. The ship's fire hose was set to work, and for hours water was sent down upon the smouldering cotton. We discovered that the fire extended from one side to the other of the steamsnip. At 520 r. M. the vessel came to a standstill. Her steering gear had burned away. Flames now shot out from the aft engine room. At 6.55 o'clock that evening the fire had eaten into the beams of the deck, and the deck fell in. I then saw that there was no hope of saving the vessel and ordered the life boats swung.

Darkness had come on by this time and a high sea was running. The ship listed. We manned the boats with difficulty, and I directed the man in cootrol of each to remain by the vessel until daybreak. As the last man was leaving the burning stean ship the main mast went by the hoard. Owing to the severity of the gale and the high sea I saw it was danger-ous to remain by the vessel, and subsequently countermanded the previous order, and we pulled away from the ship to avoid foundering. During our preparations to embark the 199 head of cattle on the steamer was cut loose, and before we got away from the vessel many of the poor beasts bad jumped overboard to avoid the flames. Their bellowings and moans were heartrending.

The remainder of the Captain's statement

The remainder of the Captain's statement relates to the rescue of shipwrecked people by the A. J. Fuller. Throughout the ex-citement of the Santiago the woman passen-ger, Krs. Kuight, behaved heroically.
